

Exhibit 3

Figure 1

An accounting degree would be useful for someone who wanted to have work that is challenging.

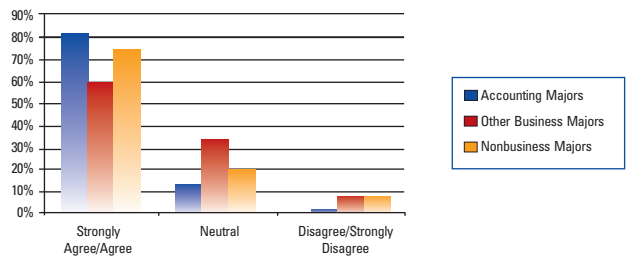

Figure 2

An accounting degree would be useful for someone who wanted to have work that is predictable and stays the same.

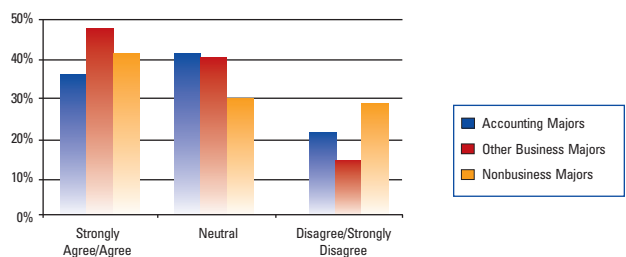

Figure 3

An accounting degree would be useful for someone who wanted to have a lot of variety in the type of work they do.

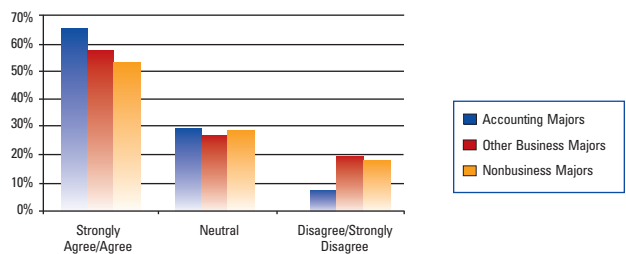

Figure 4

An accounting degree would be useful for someone who wanted to become President/CEO of a major company.

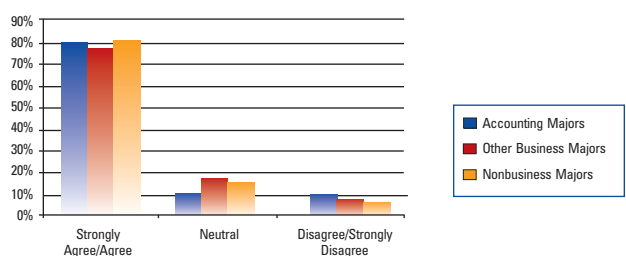

Figure 5

An accounting degree would be useful for someone who wanted to become a business consultant.

